STUDIO CLASS

Studio Class is part of the school's curriculum. It is in a group setting where all the students will get to meet peers playing the same instrument and they will be allocated based on their age group and/or standard. Being in a studio class enables students to gain self-confidence through performing and at the same time, students is able to learn from one another which they cannot learn on their own in individual practical lesson, this will vastly improve their learning ability. Studio class also cultivates social skills by interacting and communicating with their peers.

MELODY STRINGS CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

In orchestra rehearsals, your child will not only learn to know his own parts, but will also be taught to listen to melodies of other instruments and to follow the beats given by the conductor. By constantly having to deal with these vertical and horizontal progressions of chords and melodies, your child will improve in both musical sense and performance capability.
